Scott Fish Bowl Rankings, Analysis, and Team Breakdowns

Rankings are based on actual Scott Fish Bowl ADP from the FantasyLife Scott Fish Bowl tool. Note that in a major tournament like this with nearly 5,000 teams, there are miniscule degrees of separation at play. One player having a breakout season can drastically change a team's results.

These rankings are intended to be entertaining and add in a small way to a wonderful cause. Please consider donating to Fantasy Cares.

TE: Elijah Arroyo (TE33 | $0 | 19.01)

As the 2025 fantasy football season looms, Team Pestell faces an uphill battle in a daunting landscape. Last year's middling performance, which saw them land in the 43rd percentile, left much to be desired, but this season appears even more challenging. Ranked dead last in their division, they find themselves in a precarious position overall. With a receiving corps led by Justin Jefferson, who remains a standout as the second-best wideout, and supported by Davante Adams and emerging talents Zay Flowers and Jameson Williams, there's hope for aerial success. However, the running back situation is less promising; Najee Harris, ranked 36th, is slotted as a starter, raising concerns about their ground game. While they secured Michael Penix Jr. at a steal later than his ADP, boosting their quarterback depth, they reached significantly on others, notably Javonte Williams and Zay Flowers, potentially undermining their roster's balance. Despite these tactical missteps, Pestell's management can only hope that strategic gambles may somehow translate into unexpected victories in an otherwise daunting season ahead.

As the 2025 fantasy football season looms, the mood within LesTee Higgins can only be described as bleak. Despite a glimmer of potential in the backfield, where De'Von Achane and Derrick Henry offer some hope, the team's prospects are overshadowed by glaring weaknesses elsewhere. Last year's performance was dismal, and with quarterbacks Cam Ward and Jared Goff continuing to underwhelm, it seems unlikely they will mount a meaningful comeback. In the receiving corps, Puka Nacua stands out as a rare bright spot, but the rest, including Keon Coleman, leave much to be desired. Draft missteps haunt the roster; reaching too early for players like Isiah Pacheco and KeAndre Lambert-Smith has left the team scrambling in a division where they're already near the bottom. The specter of another disappointing season looms large, as LesTee Higgins finds themselves adrift, struggling to gain any footing in the vast sea of competition.

TE: David Njoku (S) (TE8 | $9 | 8.05), Brenton Strange (S) (TE21 | $1 | 14.05)

As Rupert Manningon gears up for the 2025 fantasy football season, optimism is hard to come by given last year's dismal performance. With a disheartening 39% win rate and finishing in a low scoring percentile, there's little to suggest this season will tilt in their favor. Despite boasting a solid running back lineup headlined by Christian McCaffrey and complemented by Kenneth Walker III and Alvin Kamara, the team remains bogged down by glaring weaknesses. The wide receiver corps, including Tee Higgins and Chris Godwin, underwhelms with uninspiring rankings, contributing to a lackluster aerial attack. Brenton Strange, starting as tight end, offers scant hope of elevating the team's offensive capabilities, being one of the weakest links in an already fragile roster. Compounding these issues, questionable draft decisions like reaching for Baker Mayfield and Alvin Kamara have further depleted potential roster value. As the team sits precariously at 10th in the division and languishes in the bottom 10 percentile overall, Rupert Manningon's prospects for a turnaround appear bleak at best.

The 2025 season looms ominously for Newozza, as they find themselves languishing at the bottom of their division with little hope of improvement. Despite having the strongest tight ends in their league, thanks to standouts like Brock Bowers, their overall prospects are dimmed by glaring weaknesses in other key areas. Sam Darnold remains a persistent thorn in their side, his underwhelming performances as QB28 casting long shadows over this team's ability to compete meaningfully. While their wide receiver corps boasts some bright spots, like CeeDee Lamb and Terry McLaurin, the team's decision to reach for players like Brandon Aiyuk and Jack Bech has eaten away at their potential value, leaving them ill-equipped to climb the ranks. With a disappointing 17th percentile tournament ranking, Newozza seems destined to struggle through another challenging year, overshadowed by poor drafting decisions and an inconsistent quarterback at the helm.

As the 2025 season kicks off, there's a palpable sense of excitement and cautious optimism surrounding Team Davidb8. With a commendable ranking within their competitive division, they are poised to make a splash this year, although uncertainties linger. Their strength unquestionably lies in their impressive stable of running backs, boasting standout performances from Jahmyr Gibbs and Bucky Irving, both of whom are anticipated to carry a significant load throughout the season. However, the team's progress may hinge on addressing their glaring weakness at wide receiver, where Garrett Wilson shines but lacks substantial support. Jake Ferguson's performance as tight end will be pivotal; his contributions could very well tip the scales in favor of Davidb8 or expose vulnerabilities. This young squad, with an average age that reflects its promising potential for growth and resilience, will need to harness their youthful vigor to overcome challenges. Strategic drafting has provided them some steals, like Anthony Richardson, who might offer more value than expected as the season progresses, but their reach on Ollie Gordon and Raheem Mostert suggests a gamble that might not pay off. Overall, while Davidb8's current standings suggest they are somewhat middle-of-the-pack, there is opportunity for upward movement if their key players perform as hoped. The season ahead holds promise, but much will depend on how effectively they address their receiving corps shortcomings and whether their young talents can mature quickly under pressure.

In the whimsical world of fantasy football, where unicorns occasionally serve as referees, HelloYouPunt is gearing up for a season that promises as many surprises as a piñata filled with Brussels sprouts. Last year, they were stuck in the muck at the bottom of the pond, scoring like they were politely asking for permission each time. But this year, they're strutting into the fray with a new swagger, thanks to their stellar squadron of wide receivers. Malik Nabers and Ladd McConkey are expected to dazzle like disco balls at a llama's birthday party, while Marvin Harrison Jr. and Jaylen Waddle turn on the jets and Rashod Bateman adds more depth than a conversation with a philosophical goldfish. However, the team's hopes rest heavily on the shoulders of Tyjae Spears, who may or may not have been spotted doing interpretative dance to improve his footwork. If he can keep pace with Ashton Jeanty, the division's reigning bull-dozer, and avoid tripping over imaginary lines, HelloYouPunt might just scoot up the ranks quicker than a caffeinated kangaroo. Overseeing the chaos is Patrick Mahomes, whom they snagged later than expected—like finding a $20 bill in an old pair of pants—while Bryce Young waits in the wings as the surprise understudy. As one of the younger teams with an average age akin to a just-ripe banana, they're hoping to prove the doubters wrong, especially after going on a wild shopping spree for J.K. Dobbins and Emeka Egbuka. With the quirky duo of Justin Herbert and Ladd McConkey ready to sprinkle some magic dust on every play, this might just be the season where HelloYouPunt transforms from perennial prankster to proud peacock. So, pull up your socks and grab your popcorn; it's going to be a bonkers ride!

As the Fish Sauce gear up for an exciting 2025 fantasy football season, there's a palpable sense of optimism in the air. With a solid mid-division ranking and a strong overall placement, this team is poised to climb the ranks thanks to their powerhouse running back roster. The dynamic duo of Saquon Barkley and Josh Jacobs leads a formidable backfield that will be pivotal in their quest for victory. Meanwhile, wide receiver Matthew Golden has emerged as a crucial player to watch, with his performance being a key determinant in the team's success. Despite some challenges at the receiver and tight end positions, strategic drafting has given the Fish Sauce a competitive edge. Valuable picks like Caleb Williams and J.J. McCarthy bring depth and potential upside. As they aim to improve upon last year's finish, the Fish Sauce are ready to make waves and achieve new heights this season!

As the 2025 fantasy football season kicks off, Believe in Maye is poised to make waves with a roster brimming with potential. After a challenging 2024, this squad has reloaded with a dynamic mix of seasoned talent and strategic drafting. With a division rank of 4 and sitting confidently in the 75th percentile overall, they're ready to elevate their game. The team's tight end corps is nothing short of extraordinary, spearheaded by the formidable trio of George Kittle (TE3), Travis Kelce (TE5), and Mark Andrews (TE9), whose contributions are set to be game-changers in this TE premium setup. On the receiving end, Amon-Ra St. Brown (WR6) leads the charge, complemented by the gritty Courtland Sutton (WR26) and the electric Deebo Samuel (WR41). Their depth is further bolstered by Ricky Pearsall (WR42), providing a versatile array of weapons. A shrewd draft strategy landed Bo Nix and Geno Smith at opportune picks, while Drake Maye stands as a bold choice, reflecting the team's commitment to high-impact performances. Rhamondre Stevenson (RB40) emerges as a pivotal piece, with his season's trajectory being the linchpin for success. With these ingredients, Believe in Maye carries the hopes of a fiercely competitive season, backed by a roster that balances thrilling upside with proven reliability.

As the Penguins of Buffalo stride confidently into the 2025 fantasy football season, they are poised to make waves both in their division and beyond. With a commendable rise to third place in their division and achieving an impressive 87th percentile overall, this team has truly turned things around since last year's subpar finish. At the helm are their formidable quarterbacks, led by the dynamic Josh Allen, with Jordan Love and Aaron Rodgers providing depth that could outmaneuver any opposing lineup. The wide receiver corps is nothing short of extraordinary, featuring standout talent like Brian Thomas Jr. and Travis Hunter, whose acquisition was a masterstroke of strategic timing. The addition of Jaxon Smith-Njigba at a favorable draft position further solidifies their aerial threat. While Jayden Reed may be seen as a relative dark horse, his potential to surprise should not be underestimated. Although their running back ranks are a challenge, with Jonathan Taylor leading the charge, there's every reason to believe this team can capitalize on its strengths to outpace the competition. This season holds promise and excitement for the Penguins of Buffalo, as they aim to soar even higher.

As Andy28 embarks on the 2025 fantasy football season, excitement and anticipation are at an all-time high following a stellar 2024 campaign that showcased their dominance with a commanding 91 percentile point finish. This powerhouse team is poised to maintain its top position with an extraordinary combination of talent and strategic acumen. Led by the exceptional quarterback duo of Jayden Daniels, ranked third in his position, and Justin Fields, ranked eighth, Andy28 boasts one of the strongest QB lineups in the league. While their running back cadre may not top the charts, brilliant drafting decisions brought in value picks like Tyrone Tracy and Bhayshul Tuten, adding depth and potential surprises to the roster. The team's strength is further amplified by their outstanding tight end unit in this TE premium format, headlined by Trey McBride, Tucker Kraft, and seasoned veteran Zach Ertz. Wide receiver prowess is undeniable, with Nico Collins and Tyreek Hill leading the charge, supported by D.J. Moore, who was acquired at great value. This well-balanced team, having captured the top spot in their division and positioned in the 95th percentile overall, is set to make waves once again, promising another thrilling ride for fans and competitors alike.

The 2025 season is shaping up to be an exhilarating journey for LangfordJD, as they stand tall with an impressive 95th percentile ranking and a strong second position in the AFC Richmond division. While their quarterback lineup might appear to be the Achilles' heel with C.J. Stroud, Trevor Lawrence, and Matthew Stafford occupying middle-tier spots, LangfordJD's strategic draft decisions have bolstered their overall potential. The team expertly capitalized on value picks, snagging Stoud, Stafford, Drake London, Tetairoa McMillan, and Luther Burden later than expected. This savvy approach has allowed them to fortify their roster's depth despite needing more elite running backs. Where LangfordJD truly shines is in their wide receiver corps, undoubtedly the most formidable in the division. With Ja'Marr Chase leading as the top-ranked wide receiver, along with Drake London, A.J. Brown, and Mike Evans consistently troubling opposing defenses, this team is poised to dominate the aerial game. The unexpected late-round acquisition of George Pickens further enhances their already stellar lineup, providing quarterback options with plenty of targets to exploit. As Dallas Goedert holds his ground at tight end, the team is set to make a significant impact. Although the running backs are a bit lower in ranking, the promising talents of Kyren Williams and RJ Harvey should not be underestimated. Overall, LangfordJD is well-positioned for a thrilling season, ready to tackle any challenge on their path to victory.
