Scott Fish Bowl Rankings, Analysis, and Team Breakdowns

Rankings are based on actual Scott Fish Bowl ADP from the FantasyLife Scott Fish Bowl tool. Note that in a major tournament like this with nearly 5,000 teams, there are miniscule degrees of separation at play. One player having a breakout season can drastically change a team's results.

These rankings are intended to be entertaining and add in a small way to a wonderful cause. Please consider donating to Fantasy Cares.

Ah, Sloth55, poised for yet another glittering season of, well, sheer mediocrity. After last year's thrilling 15th percentile finish and a win rate that made even Detroit Lions' fans nod in sympathy, this team enters 2025 with high hopes and low execution. They shine brightest at tight end, where Brock Bowers leads the charge, valiantly supported by Mark Andrews and Isaiah Likely, the latter of whom is likely to be the analog for "why bother?" But don't let that distract you from their middle-of-the-road wide receiver corps, where Drake London and Tyreek Hill work hard to maintain their rank of "hey, someone has to be 6th." True to form, Sloth55 found value with Justin Fields, but who needs logic when you can reach for players like Jalen Milroe just to keep things exciting? Surely, this cunning strategy will catapult them from the depths of their division's cellar to, let's be optimistic, maybe 11th place. As for the tournament, finishing in the 9th percentile suggests someone must have mistakenly thought it was golf, where lower scores win.

As sethdiewold embarks on the 2025 fantasy football season, hopes of replicating last year's success seem distant. Despite a formidable lineup of quarterbacks headlined by Jalen Hurts and Caleb Williams, their strength appears overshadowed by glaring weaknesses elsewhere. The running back position remains a significant concern, with RJ Harvey struggling to carry the load alone. The team's wide receivers boast impressive names like Malik Nabers and A.J. Brown, but this advantage is unlikely to compensate for other deficiencies. Hunter Henry, their starting tight end, is alarmingly weak, further exacerbating the challenges. The decision to draft Rome Odunze earlier than necessary raises eyebrows, especially when considering the squad's already precarious standing.

With an unenviable ranking in both their division and overall tournament play, sethdiewold's prospects for turning things around seem bleak without more decisive strategic adjustments.

TE: George Kittle (S) (TE3 | $28 | 3.08) ♦, Jake Ferguson (S) (TE14 | $4 | 11.08)

As the 2025 fantasy football season looms, JosHall faces an uphill battle, desperately clutching at the fading echoes of their dominant 2024 run. Once riding high with an impressive 87th percentile finish and a 75% winning rate, this year's outlook is bleak by comparison. The team languishes at a disheartening 10th place in their division, with their overall ranking in the 21st percentile underscoring a precipitous decline. While the potent combination of George Kittle and Brock Purdy offers a glimmer of synergy and tight ends remain a cornerstone strength, the wide receiver corps leaves much to be desired. Even Terry McLaurin, despite his WR19 standing, can't fully compensate for the underwhelming contributions expected from Tre Harris and Jameson Williams. JosHall's backfield, though boasting Saquon Barkley's prowess, is diluted by reliance on Jordan Mason—a projected starter yet ranked as low as RB38. The team's draft strategy, marred by reaches that saw Roman Wilson taken significantly earlier than his value merited, has compounded these woes, offering scant consolation in the minor coup of Jaylen Wright as a late-round steal. As they brace for the season, it's a sobering reminder that past glory offers no guarantees for future success.

TE: Travis Kelce (S) (TE5 | $15 | 5.04)

As BaronVonAaron trudges into the 2025 fantasy football season, the team faces an uphill battle with a roster that leaves much to be desired in the quarterback room, where Jordan Love and C.J. Stroud rank in the lower tiers of their position. Despite this, the team's strength decidedly lies in its backfield, sporting powerhouses like Christian McCaffrey and Derrick Henry, who are poised to carry much of the load. While the running backs offer a glimmer of hope, Najee Harris serves as a pivotal yet shaky component, whose performance could very well dictate the team's success. The wide receivers, with Travis Hunter leading the charge and Marvin Harrison Jr. providing solid support, sit on middle ground, capable but not extraordinary. In the draft, BaronVonAaron showed some keen judgment with value picks like Cedric Tillman, however, the early birds like Nick Chubb and Justice Hill might not yield the anticipated payoff. With a division rank of ninth and situated in the lower third of overall rankings, BaronVonAaron must hope for overperformances and strategic ingenuity to surpass expectations and make any significant playoff impact.

TE: Evan Engram (S) (TE7 | $10 | 7.09), Mike Gesicki (TE22 | $1 | 13.09), Oronde Gadsden (TE41 | $0 | 20.04)

As the 2025 fantasy football season looms on the horizon, Team Hombrevender finds itself in an intriguing position. Coming off a successful 2024 campaign, they now sit at a modest rank within their division and hover in the lower tier of the overall standings. Their fortunes largely rest on the shoulders of an impressive array of wide receivers, led by the elite talents of Ja'Marr Chase and buoyed by the likes of Jaxon Smith-Njigba, Ladd McConkey, and DK Metcalf. Yet, Jayden Higgins is poised as a pivotal piece whose performance could swing their fate. Despite having secured some great value picks in the draft such as Breece Hall and Jared Goff, the latter remains a concern at quarterback with a middling positional rank that may hinder their advancement. Their running back core shows potential but lacks the depth needed to consistently drive success. With a few draft decisions raising eyebrows, notably the early selection of J.K. Dobbins, Hombrevender faces a season that will test their strategic acumen as they strive to improve upon last year's commendable finish.

As Rudy gears up for the 2025 season, they're looking to bounce back from last year's below-average performance that left them wandering in a fantasy wilderness. Sitting comfortably in the middle of the pack, Rudy plans to unleash its army of wide receiver wizards to climb the ranks. With high-flying Puka Nacua and Nico Collins dazzling defenses, expect fireworks and chaos on the field. While Cam Ward might be the team's mischievous jester, liable to trip over his own shoelaces at QB23, the receiving squad—featuring D.J. Moore slicing through defenders with sly moves—promises to paint the town red. Rudy's running backs, however, are another story. Rhamondre Stevenson's mysterious talent for hiding from the end zone might leave fans scratching their heads, but fear not! The tight ends are here to save the day! With Trey McBride and T.J. Hockenson ready to leap tall defenders in a single bound, Rudy's tight end trio will spin defenses into knots. Despite acquiring J.J.

McCarthy at a bargain and possibly having Daniel Jones as a secret weapon stashed away, Rudy faces an uphill battle. But with whimsical charm and a little bit of luck, this team's journey through the fantasy realm could be a tale worth telling!

As the 2025 fantasy football season kicks off, yourfriendadam is poised for a competitive run, currently sitting in the middle of their division at sixth and ranked in the 47th percentile overall. Boasting one of the strongest quarterback lineups, with Lamar Jackson and Patrick Mahomes leading the charge, the team is looking to capitalize on their offensive potential. However, the tight end position remains a concern, with Zach Ertz struggling to make an impact at TE20. Bhayshul Tuten, a late-round pick who could prove to be a pivotal figure, will need to perform beyond expectations to balance the team's lineup. The wide receivers, featuring Rashee Rice and Mike Evans, aim to provide consistent support, though they face challenges within their division. Notable draft strategies saw yourfriendadam securing major value with Bucky Irving and Bhayshul Tuten while making some questionable early selections like Patrick Mahomes. With a small stack bonus from the Mahomes-Rice combo, the team is set to navigate this season's challenges, hoping to climb both divisional and overall rankings.

TE: Jonnu Smith (S) (TE15 | $3 | 9.05), Ja'Tavion Sanders (TE30 | $0 | 17.05), Noah Gray (TE35 | $0 | 20.08)

As the 2025 fantasy football season unfurls its tapestry of thrilling contests, PlantDaddy99 stands poised at the precipice of greatness, ready to embark on a campaign that promises both drama and triumph. With a quarterback duo in Jayden Daniels and Bo Nix, ranking among the elite, the offensive engine of this team hums with precision and power. The wide receiver arsenal is nothing short of stellar, featuring the electrifying talents of Justin Jefferson, Tee Higgins, DeVonta Smith, and Jaylen Waddle, all of whom bring the promise of highlight-reel performances each week. George Pickens, Cooper Kupp, and Darnell Mooney further bolster this formidable receiving corps, casting a long shadow over opponents who dare to challenge them. Yet, the key to unlocking unparalleled success might rest on the shoulders of Jaydon Blue, whose performance will be pivotal in propelling the team to new heights. Draft strategy shone brightly, with the acquisition of Bo Nix and Jaydon

Blue later than anticipated, while Jayden Daniels was secured with exceptional foresight. Although the choice of Shedeur Sanders may have elicited raised eyebrows, the overall structure of the squad suggests a carefully woven masterpiece. As they prepare to navigate the rugged terrain of their division, the Kansas City Monarchs, with aspirations of ascending from their current rank of fourth, PlantDaddy99 enters the season with the audacity to dream and the prowess to achieve. Their standing in the upper echelon of teams is a testament to strategic acumen and raw talent, setting the stage for a monumental journey in this bustling arena of fantasy competition.

As the dawn of the 2025 fantasy football season breaks, BradWireFF stands poised on the precipice of glory, casting aside the shadow of a lackluster 2024 campaign. Now ranked third among the formidable Kansas City Monarchs and surging into the upper echelons of competition, they find themselves in the 82nd percentile, a testament to their rising prowess. With a backfield that is nothing short of extraordinary, Ashton Jeanty and De'Von Achane lead a cadre of running backs that has cemented its dominance as the finest in the division. Jeanty's exceptional draft value, snared at a spot when others might have hesitated, sets the stage for a ground assault unparalleled among peers. The fleet-footed Omarion Hampton adds further depth, his acquisition a masterstroke of strategic foresight. While their quarterback stable lags behind with Matthew Stafford and Geno

Smith navigating the airways, BradWireFF's ground game promises to bulldoze through any obstacle in its path. Wide receiver stalwarts Calvin Ridley and Jordan Addison endeavor to complement this powerhouse with critical receptions, despite the mid-tier expectations. Michael Pittman, although a less formidable starter, remains a crucial element in this ensemble, his presence often tipping the scales in pivotal matchups. Tight end Juwan Johnson, stolen from the clutches of higher ADP, whispers untapped potential that could redefine the passing strategy. As each week unfolds, BradWireFF aspires not just to conquer but to mesmerize, each play a stroke in a masterpiece, heralding a season where past mediocrity is but a distant memory, replaced by a narrative of resilience and supremacy.

As the 2025 fantasy football season unfolds, KappaMC is poised to make waves with an electrifying lineup that promises both consistency and surprise. Seated impressively at rank 2 within the Kansas City Monarchs division and standing tall in the 87th percentile overall, this team is a force to be reckoned with. At the heart of KappaMC's success is a dynamic running back corps, spearheaded by the indomitable Bijan Robinson (RB1), who leads a powerhouse ground game complemented by the likes of Jonathan Taylor (RB9) and Kenneth Walker III (RB16). While the wide receiver and tight end positions may appear less formidable, strategic draft decisions have brought great value to players like Chris Olave (WR35), who was expertly acquired well after his projected ADP. Meanwhile, Rachaad White (RB43) emerges as a pivotal player, embodying the underdog spirit with the potential to outshine expectations, despite being chosen slightly later than anticipated. The team's strategic foresight is further evidenced by the savvy selection of Austin Ekeler (RB47) earlier than his ADP might suggest, underscoring a calculated gamble on untapped potential. With a solid foundation and the ability to outmaneuver opponents through keen drafting insights, KappaMC is primed to challenge competitors with a thrilling and unpredictable campaign, setting the stage for a memorable season.

As the 2025 fantasy football season kicks off, JawReich stands poised to deliver an electrifying performance, both within their division and on a broader scale. With an enviable ranking at the top of their division, and within the upper echelon of the competitive field, this youthful team, averaging just under 25 years of age, displays a vibrant mix of talent and strategy. Their running back squad, led by the formidable Jahmyr Gibbs, is a powerhouse lineup, with Chase Brown and James Cook adding depth and versatility to their ground attack. At tight end, Tyler Warren and Sam LaPorta anchor a skillful group that thrives in this TE Premium setup, promising consistent point production week after week. While Emeka Egbuka may be seen as a less formidable starter, his presence alongside dynamic wideouts like CeeDee Lamb ensures the receiving corps can hold its own, even with a modest divisional ranking. The strategic drafting that landed CeeDee Lamb and Kareem Hunt at opportune moments, and even a steal with Baker Mayfield, underscores the savvy management steering JawReich toward what promises to be a remarkable season. This team's blend of youthful energy, strategic drafting, and key positional strengths make them a formidable contender for 2025.
