Scott Fish Bowl Rankings, Analysis, and Team Breakdowns

Rankings are based on actual Scott Fish Bowl ADP from the FantasyLife Scott Fish Bowl tool. Note that in a major tournament like this with nearly 5,000 teams, there are miniscule degrees of separation at play. One player having a breakout season can drastically change a team's results.

These rankings are intended to be entertaining and add in a small way to a wonderful cause. Please consider donating to Fantasy Cares.

Ah, the 2025 fantasy football season looms for trkarfb32 with all the excitement of watching paint dry. Riding high off last year's stunningly average performance, they've somehow managed to plummet to the very depths of their division, nestling comfortably in last place while languishing in the 13th percentile overall. Clearly, the strategy to reach for players like Jaylen Warren and Oronde Gadsden paid off—if by "paid off" you mean "set money on fire." At least they have a dream team of wide receivers, headlined by the likes of Justin Jefferson and Brian Thomas Jr., who might actually catch enough passes to make up for the team's glaring black hole at tight end—a position apparently filled by someone named "The Void." The backfield is led by the dynamic duo of James

Cook and Tyjae Spears, with Spears being as reliable as a paper umbrella in a hurricane. But congratulations on snagging quarterbacks Caleb Williams and Jordan Love well after their ADPs—because when your team's already a dumpster fire, you might as well have some late-round steals to hurl into the flames. Welcome to another season of fantasy mediocrity, trkarfb32: set your expectations to "deflated."

As ajballa21 prepares for a promising 2025 underdog story, the fantasy football world collectively holds its breath—or perhaps just stifles a yawn. After a stellar 2024 campaign that saw them finish in the illustrious top 17 percentile of scoring and win a staggering third of their matchups, expectations are astronomically middling. This year, the team looks poised to maintain its reign at the lofty rank of 11th out of... well, we'll leave that part unsaid. With Anthony Richardson as the projected starter, it appears the strategy is to lull opponents into a false sense of security. Meanwhile, their wide receiver core boasts CeeDee Lamb, who was snagged with impeccable timing, just a smidge before his value truly hit the charts, alongside a lineup of receivers that might confuse defenders simply by showing up. Cade Otton, however, is the team's secret weapon, expertly drafted slightly after his anticipated round, because nothing screams value like saving that extra minute on the clock. As for their overall strategy, it's clear: ajballa21 is embracing the avant-garde approach of keeping their competition guessing—or maybe just guessing themselves.

As Bones Mahomes enters the 2025 fantasy football season, the outlook appears rather bleak, marred by a lackluster performance in both the division and the overall tournament standings. With a roster that boasts strong quarterback play from Josh Allen and Kyler Murray, and a solid tight end lineup featuring Sam LaPorta and Colston Loveland, one might expect better prospects. However, the team is severely handicapped by an underwhelming wide receiver corps, ranked tenth in their division, with Garrett Wilson leading the charge at WR14, trailed by Xavier Worthy, George Pickens, and Jerry Jeudy. The reliance on Dallas Goedert as a starter further highlights the frailty in their tight-end setup, despite the TE Premium scoring format. While some value picks like J.K. Dobbins and Kyle Williams provide a glimmer of hope, the team's early reach for Garrett Wilson and Sam LaPorta casts a shadow over their draft strategy. Entering the season ranked tenth in their division and sitting in the lowly 20th percentile overall, Bones Mahomes faces an uphill battle, struggling to find their footing amidst a sea of stronger contenders.

TE: Travis Kelce (S) (TE5 | $15 | 6.05), Chigoziem Okonkwo (TE26 | $0 | 16.05), Noah Fant (TE40 | $0 | 19.08)

As the bhamsam team gears up for the 2025 fantasy football season, they find themselves in a challenging position, ranking ninth in their division and just below the midway point overall. Their hope rests heavily on their formidable cadre of running backs, with Jahmyr Gibbs leading the charge as one of the top three in his position, supported by Josh Jacobs and Chuba Hubbard, both poised to deliver consistent performances. Rhamondre Stevenson adds depth to this area, though he's a bit farther down the rankings. Wide receiver Jayden Reed, a pivotal starter and perhaps the team's weak link, will need to step up significantly to boost their standings. The team is cautiously optimistic about their recent draft strategy, where they secured Dak Prescott and Jared Goff later than expected, adding valuable depth to their quarterback lineup. However, they may have reached a bit early for Tee Higgins and Jakobi Meyers, hoping these choices will pay off. If this mix of strategic gambles and strong performances can come together, bhamsam may just find themselves climbing out of their current ranking, eyeing a more competitive spot as the season unfolds.

As the 2025 fantasy football season looms on the horizon, Team JosiahRay embarks on a whimsical journey through the kaleidoscope of rankings and expectations. With their division's moldy crown hanging precariously at rank 8, and standing in the 36th percentile of some vast, mysterious competition, they prepare their oddly assorted roster for whatever absurdities await. Leading the charge is Derrick Henry (RB7), galloping like a rhinoceros on rollerblades, followed by Chase Brown (RB12) and Kenneth Walker III (RB16), who might just form a triumvirate competent enough to tackle a swarm of bees with honeyed footballs. Meanwhile, Brandon Aiyuk (WR50), the sly jester of this motley crew, dances on the brink of importance and fragility, his fates intertwined with a string of fantastical touchdown dreams. Despite Mike Gesicki (TE22) occasionally forgetting where to find the endzone, the team's wideouts, led by the enigmatic Puka Nacua (WR5), weave an eccentric tapestry of potential and unpredictability. J.J. McCarthy, acquired with the cunning of a fox in the ninth round, stands ready to defy expectations, while C.J. Stroud, plucked like a rare gem from the tenth round, waits in the wings to unleash chaos upon unsuspecting defenses. Amari Cooper, arriving much earlier than anticipated, tips his hat to the swirling winds of fortune, as JosiahRay marches boldly into an unpredictable season where anything might happen, and probably will.

TE: Hunter Henry (S) (TE19 | $2 | 12.01), Zach Ertz (TE20 | $2 | 11.12)

As the 2025 fantasy football season kicks off, Team Rui is eager to build on last year's experiences and make significant strides in both their division and overall tournament standings. They finished 2024 in the bottom fifth for scoring and won only a third of their games, but there's optimism in the air. Currently ranking 7th in the Kansas Jayhawks division and sitting in the 48th percentile overall, Rui has made strategic moves to strengthen their roster. With a powerhouse running back lineup featuring Bijan Robinson, Jonathan Taylor, and Alvin Kamara leading the charge, they boast the strongest ground game in their league. Quarterback remains a challenge, with Trevor Lawrence, Bryce Young, and Geno Smith providing limited upside. However, Rui snagged some great value picks, such as Lawrence and Geno Smith, which could pay dividends. Wide receivers Tetairoa McMillan and Calvin Ridley will need to outperform expectations to compensate for the weaker air attack. The performance of tight end Hunter Henry will be crucial; his contributions could make or break key matchups. While Rui reached slightly for some players like Bryce Young and James Conner, these decisions reflect their belief in potential breakout performances. All eyes are on them to surpass last year's results and climb the ranks.

As the 2025 fantasy football season kicks off, Team WillBrinson is poised for an exciting run with a compelling mix of talent and strategy. The buzz around Lamar Jackson, ranked as the top quarterback, promises electrifying performances, especially with the stack bonuses from his connections with Mark Andrews and Zay Flowers. Tua Tagovailoa and Cooper Kupp were drafted at great value, adding depth and potential breakout moments that could surprise opponents. Despite ranking 6th in their division and in the 54th percentile overall, our powerhouse wide receiver lineup featuring Malik Nabers, Tyreek Hill, and Davante Adams is set to dazzle and dominate, while tight ends like George Kittle add strong scoring opportunities in this TE Premium setup. The running back position might seem a tad thin with David Montgomery, but the strength of the passing game is expected to lift the team. Darnell Mooney's performance will be closely watched, as he plays a pivotal role in reaching new heights. With strategic decisions and key players ready to shine, WillBrinson is looking forward to climbing the ranks and making a memorable impact this season!

As borgjohn715 gears up for the 2025 fantasy football season, there's a sense of optimism in the air. Following a challenging 2024 campaign, this team has made key adjustments and is looking to leverage its strengths to climb the ranks. With an impressive stable of running backs led by Saquon Barkley, the team's ground game remains formidable, promising plenty of points throughout the season. Omarion Hampton and TreVeyon Henderson add depth and explosiveness to the backfield, providing a solid foundation for the team's offensive strategy. Although quarterback position needs improvement, Drake Maye offers potential upside that could surprise opponents this year. Jordan Mason, a pivotal starter, could be a game-changer if he steps up to meet the challenges ahead. Meanwhile, wide receivers Amon-Ra St. Brown and A.J. Brown bring consistency and big-play potential to the lineup, ensuring that the passing game remains competitive. With an infusion of youthful energy, thanks to an average starter age of just 24.9, borgjohn715 can harness fresh talent and agility against more seasoned opponents. Smart draft decisions, like snagging Keon Coleman later than anticipated, demonstrate strategic foresight that could pay dividends, while the reach for Tre Harris shows the team's willingness to take calculated risks. All these factors combined make borgjohn715 a team to watch this year, with the potential to rise above their current standings and make a significant impact in their division and beyond.

As the 2025 fantasy football season kicks off, Ted Nebrasso is poised for an exciting run, blending youthful energy with a powerful lineup. With a solid foundation, they hold strong at fourth in their division and sit comfortably in the 62nd percentile overall. This team is turning heads with the most formidable wide receiver corps around, boasting talents like Ja'Marr Chase, the top-ranked wideout, alongside electrifying stars such as Travis Hunter, Jaxon Smith-Njigba, and DeVonta Smith. Their air attack, led by the dynamic duo of Joe Burrow and Chase, promises to light up scoreboards, while Justin Herbert sneaks in as a savvy draft value. Though the running back depth presents a challenge, with Quinshon Judkins leading the charge, the team's explosive receiving options aim to more than compensate. Kyle Pitts looms as a pivotal player; his performance could tip the scales this season. With one of the younger squads in the field, Ted Nebrasso's youthful exuberance and strategic drafting position them to make some serious noise in both their division and beyond. Get ready for a thrilling season ahead!

As RCJHeier3 gears up for the 2025 fantasy football season, there's a palpable sense of optimism in the air. With a solid core at quarterback, featuring star performances from Jalen Hurts and strong backup options like Baker Mayfield and Cam Ward, the team is poised to make significant strides. Their wide receiver corps looks promising as well, led by standout Nico Collins and supported by dynamic playmakers like Rashee Rice and Jaylen Waddle. While Emeka Egbuka may be a wildcard, his potential to surprise could serve as an ace up their sleeve. The team smartly capitalized on value picks, notably acquiring Cam Ward and Marquise Brown at advantageous spots, which could pay dividends as the season progresses. Though improvement is needed in the tight end position, RCJHeier3 is well-positioned to climb both their divisional ranks and overall standings, aiming to better last year's results with strategic depth and explosive offensive potential.

As the 2025 fantasy football season kicks off, Team Jobby stands poised for a remarkable campaign, building on their solid performance from last year. Ranked impressively high within their division and overall, they boast a formidable roster that promises to challenge competitors at every turn. The team's greatest strength lies in their quarterback duo—Jayden Daniels and Patrick Mahomes—who are unmatched in the division. Despite their running backs being less distinguished, with Jaydon Blue and Trey Benson anchoring the backfield, the wide receiver corps is nothing short of exceptional. With standout talents like Drake London, Marvin Harrison Jr., Courtland Sutton, Chris Olave, and others, Team Jobby's receiving unit presents a well-rounded threat. Their strategic drafting has also seen them secure fantastic value in players like Mahomes and Brock Bowers, who leads the tight ends. While Jayden Higgins is one of the weaker projected starters, his potential to surprise adds an element of intrigue. As they enter this season, bolstered by strategic selections and an enviable lineup, Team Jobby is ready to ascend to new heights.

The 2025 fantasy football season is shaping up to be an exciting one for tuljhwk, who are poised to make a significant impact. Currently sitting at the top of their division and within the elite 97th percentile overall, this team is ready to capitalize on their strong strategic decisions and impressive roster depth. After a below-average finish last year, tuljhwk has retooled with a powerhouse lineup of running backs, including top performers like Christian McCaffrey and Kyren Williams, ensuring a consistent ground attack. Moreover, their prowess in the tight end department sets them apart, boasting an unparalleled group led by Trey McBride and complemented by savvy draft picks like Evan Engram and David Njoku, whose acquisitions provided excellent value. While wide receivers remain an area for improvement, the synergy between Evan Engram and quarterback Bo Nix offers a promising stack bonus, enhancing scoring potential each week. Jake Ferguson may be a wildcard, but his role as a starting tight end adds depth to an already formidable roster. With strategic drafting and valuable player acquisitions, tuljhwk is ready to dominate, aiming for an outstanding season that will redefine their legacy.
