Scott Fish Bowl Rankings, Analysis, and Team Breakdowns

Rankings are based on actual Scott Fish Bowl ADP from the FantasyLife Scott Fish Bowl tool. Note that in a major tournament like this with nearly 5,000 teams, there are miniscule degrees of separation at play. One player having a breakout season can drastically change a team's results.

These rankings are intended to be entertaining and add in a small way to a wonderful cause. Please consider donating to Fantasy Cares.

As the 2025 season looms, expectations are dim for SniperMel, a team that finds itself languishing at the bottom of both its division and overall standings. Last year's thrill of a 69th percentile finish seems like a distant memory as the team's weak points are glaringly apparent. The roster is marred by questionable draft decisions, with Matthew Stafford poised as a starting quarterback despite being ranked a lowly QB25, a reach that could haunt them all season long. The tight end position, featuring George Kittle and Dallas Goedert, provides a glimmer of hope, but that alone might not be enough to salvage a sinking ship. In a setup where wide receiver depth is crucial, SniperMel's choices, such as taking A.J. Brown and Davante Adams earlier than necessary, haven't entirely panned out, leaving them with a middle-of-the-pack WR unit. Repeated tendencies to overreach in the draft have cost the team dearly, particularly with players like Ray Davis and Matthew Golden, who were snagged well before their average draft positions warranted. With these missteps, the team seems ill-prepared to climb out of the basement of the division or make any significant waves overall, casting a shadow over what may be a long and arduous season ahead.

TE: Kyle Pitts (S) (TE17 | $2 | 12.02)

As the 2025 season looms, Suck Gianneez Nuts faces an uphill battle to reclaim any semblance of past glory. Coming off a dominant 2024, hopes of replicating that success seem dim with rankings that have plummeted to 11th in their division and the dismal 5th percentile overall. Despite having a reliable quarterback duo in Josh Allen and Jared Goff, question marks linger everywhere else. The running back group appears decent at first glance with Kyren Williams leading the charge, but when relying on inconsistent performers like Joe Mixon and James Conner, consistency is far from guaranteed. The wide receivers, led by uninspiring options like Chris Olave and Rome Odunze, are poised to drag down any aerial attack aspirations, while Kyle Pitts as the starting tight end offers little reassurance. Questionable draft choices only compound the concerns, as reaching for players like Emeka Egbuka and Tre Harris earlier than necessary has left the team scrambling. Even with some late-round value picks, the missteps during the draft may prove too costly, casting a long shadow over a season that threatens to be more frustrating than fruitful.

Ah, the Big Dog fantasy football team, a name that inspires visions of towering dominance, yet here we are, poised for another season where mediocrity seems more like the team's mascot than anything fearsome or imposing. With an awe-inspiring 10th place in the Milwaukee Bucks division and a stellar 11th percentile ranking overall, Big Dog is certainly sniffing the heights of... well, something. While the receipt of Justin Jefferson at WR2 might have momentarily sparked dreams of glory, the reality is anchored by Rhamondre Stevenson, the RB40 starter whose presence on the field seems less ominous than a gentle summer breeze. And while Darnell Mooney and Terry McLaurin had their ADPs gleefully ignored in drafts, the true gem of foresight was selecting Zack Moss with the boldness of a team that knows something no one else does—or maybe just the opposite. With such strategic genius at play, fans of Big Dog can eagerly anticipate a season filled with the kind of drama only a race to avoid the basement can provide.

As the 2025 fantasy football season dawns, Reddy for the Holidays seems poised for a triumphant encore of last year's respectable run—or perhaps a cautionary tale of last-minute drafts gone awry. With a division rank that could charitably be described as modest, and a tournament standing nestled comfortably in the basement at the 17th percentile, optimism is certainly in abundant supply for those who see the glass as perpetually half-empty. Perhaps the most intriguing subplot is watching Bryce Young, the QB22 and possible Achilles' heel, attempt to guide this team past its current lack of ground game firepower, courtesy of Bhayshul Tuten and Jerome Ford, ranked in the mid-40s where running backs go to pasture. Fortunately, a treasure trove of wide receiver talent, including Amon-Ra St. Brown and Brian Thomas Jr., promises to provide some aerial fireworks.

Meanwhile, tight ends Trey McBride and Evan Engram will be busy trying to justify their lofty rankings in this TE Premium setup, hoping to keep the ship afloat. The roster's great value finds—like Stefon Diggs taken well after his ADP—contrast sharply with head-scratchers like the reach for Keenan Allen. But worry not, because despite their humble beginnings, the team does boast an exciting duo in Mike Evans and Baker Mayfield, ensuring that when the inevitable comes crashing down, it will do so in a blaze of glory.

As the 2025 fantasy football season kicks off, team jonredcorn08 is poised to make a strong run, leveraging their impressive depth at quarterback and running back. With Jayden Daniels leading the charge as a top-tier quarterback, and Brock Purdy providing solid backup, the team's foundation in leadership is set. Their running back arsenal is formidable, featuring Derrick Henry and Kenneth Walker III as standout performers, supported by the versatile Chuba Hubbard and veteran Aaron Jones. This depth ensures jonredcorn08 remains competitive in ground-game strategy, crucial for both their league and overall standings. While wide receiver remains an area of concern, with Cooper Kupp and Michael Pittman battling for consistency, the key to unlocking further success lies in Pittman's performance as a projected starter. His development throughout the season could be pivotal. The strategic draft decisions, such as securing Jayden Daniels and Kenneth Walker III slightly below their average draft positions, have positioned jonredcorn08 well for a competitive campaign. As they look to climb the ranks and improve their standing, the balance between experience and potential breakout performances will be essential for a successful season.

As the 2025 fantasy football season kicks off, Team Ersan Ilyasova is poised to make significant strides in their division, Milwaukee Bucks. With a solid core of wide receivers like Puka Nacua and Drake London leading the charge, the team boasts one of the most formidable WR groups in its league. This impressive lineup offers the potential for explosive scoring opportunities each week. While the running back position presents a challenge, with Najee Harris needing to step up as a key contributor, the strategic acquisition of Christian McCaffrey could bring stability and elevate the team's rushing attack. At quarterback, the smart draft selections of Tua Tagovailoa and Michael Penix Jr. promise depth and versatility, giving them leverage in crucial matchups. Despite entering the season ranked 7th in the division and just inside the upper half of the broader competition, Team

Ersan Ilyasova's shrewd drafting and promising receiver lineup make them a dark horse contender ready to surprise opponents and climb the ranks this season.

As the 2025 fantasy football season approaches, Wolf In Bucks Clothing is poised to make a significant impact, both in their division and beyond. Anchored by an electrifying group of wide receivers, this team boasts the strongest lineup in their league, featuring standout talents like CeeDee Lamb (WR3) and Nico Collins (WR7), along with a formidable supporting cast that includes Tyreek Hill (WR17) and Rashee Rice (WR15). The strategic pairing of Dak Prescott with Lamb adds an exciting stack bonus, promising explosive plays and consistent scoring potential. With a TE Premium setup, the team further shines through the exceptional talents of Brock Bowers (TE1) and Tucker Kraft (TE12), who solidify their dominance at the tight end position. While Brandon Aiyuk (WR50) holds a critical role as a starter, his performance will be pivotal in maintaining the team's competitive edge. Despite a weaker spot at running back, with Zach Charbonnet (RB37), the team's shrewd draft strategies have positioned them well, capitalizing on value picks like J.J. McCarthy and Jonnu Smith. Although there was a slight reach for players such as Joshua Palmer and Tucker Kraft, the overall roster composition speaks to a calculated approach aimed at maximizing upside. As they enter the season ranked fourth in their division and in the 78th percentile overall, Wolf In Bucks Clothing is not just donning a clever moniker, but also a strategy-driven ensemble ready to outpace expectations and clinch victories on the fantasy gridiron.

As elimilesrs4 gears up for the 2025 fantasy football season, they are poised for an impressive showing, building on last year's steady performance. With a strategic mix of high-caliber talent and tactical drafts, this team is set to make waves. Led by Lamar Jackson, the top quarterback in the league, and backed by Kyler Murray, elimilesrs4 boasts the strongest quarterback lineup in their division. This dynamic duo promises to electrify the field with their dual-threat capabilities and elevate the team's offensive game. While the tight end position remains a work in progress, with Isaiah Likely striving to rise through the ranks, the wide receiver corps is packed with potential. Malik Nabers, Marvin Harrison Jr., and Zay Flowers bring both depth and versatility, ensuring a robust aerial attack. Jakobi Meyers and Khalil Shakir add further flexibility, making the receiving unit a formidable force. A key storyline this season will be the performance of Jaydon Blue, who holds the potential to be a game-changer. His contributions could be pivotal in elevating the team's standings. The team's decision to secure Lamar Jackson slightly later than expected could prove to be a masterstroke, while the stack bonuses from rostered quarterback-receiver pairs promise additional scoring opportunities. With a promising start, ranking fifth in the division and in the 78th percentile overall, elimilesrs4 is well-positioned to improve their standing and break new ground. Their blend of strong leadership, strategic drafts, and a balanced roster sets them on a trajectory for success this season.

As the 2025 fantasy football season kicks off, Antetokounmpoints stands poised for another impressive year following a dominant 2024 campaign. With a formidable win rate of 83% and finishing in the 95th percentile last season, they're entering this year with confidence and momentum. Currently ranked third in the Milwaukee Bucks division and comfortably in the 81st percentile overall, this team boasts a solid foundation, especially at the quarterback and tight end positions. Joe Burrow, Patrick Mahomes, and C.J. Stroud offer a strong quarterback lineup, while Travis Kelce and David Njoku provide significant firepower in this TE Premium setup. The team's running back core, led by Bijan Robinson, is complemented by strategic draft picks like Tyjae Spears, who promises to be a pivotal contributor despite being one of the weaker projected starters.

Notably, Antetokounmpoints secured incredible value in the draft, picking up seasoned talents like Joe Burrow and C.J. Stroud at advantageous spots, adding depth and options for tactical plays throughout the season. Additionally, Darren Waller was a steal that should fortify their lineup as the season progresses. In terms of challenges, while the wide receiver position may not be the team's strongest suit, key players like Travis Hunter and Chris Godwin are set to step up and deliver crucial performances. The clever strategy of stacking Travis Kelce with Patrick Mahomes could also lead to high-scoring matchups, boosting the team's potential to climb even higher in the rankings. With such a well-rounded and strategically assembled team, Antetokounmpoints is ready to make another formidable run at success in 2025, combining past successes with smart drafting tactics to create an exciting and competitive season ahead.

As the 2025 fantasy football season dawns, It's About Dame Time! stands on the precipice of greatness, poised to capture glory both within their division and across a vast competitive landscape. Rising from the ashes of a lackluster 2024 showing, where they languished in the 23rd percentile, the team has stormed back with a vengeance, now sitting proudly in the 86th percentile overall and ranked second in the fiercely contested Milwaukee Bucks division. Anchored by an indomitable running back corps, featuring stars like Jahmyr Gibbs, Josh Jacobs, and James Cook, this team promises to batter and bewilder defenses with relentless ground assaults. Underpinning their offensive prowess, Justin Herbert forms an electrifying connection with Ladd McConkey, creating a dynamic duo that injects exhilaration into the team's air attack, albeit with some challenges posed by a wide receiver group ranked eighth in the division. Their shrewd draft strategy secured unexpected gems in Omarion Hampton and Cam Skattebo, while calculated risks on talents like Kyle Monangai and Christian Kirk hint at a bold vision for the season. Despite the slight vulnerability posed by Dalton Kincaid's role, the team's spirit is unyielding, looking to outpace rivals and ascend to the pinnacle of fantasy dominance. As each matchup unfolds, It's About Dame Time! endeavors to etch its name among the legends, driven by ambition and an unwavering quest for victory.

As SWallaceFF gears up for an electrifying 2025 fantasy football season, the team is poised to soar to new heights in their division, the Milwaukee Bucks, while also making a formidable impact on the larger competitive stage. After finishing in the 76th percentile last year, SWallaceFF's impressive roster enhancements catapult them to the top of their division and into the rarefied air of the 92nd percentile overall. The dynamic receiving corps, headlined by Ja'Marr Chase (WR1), bolstered by Tee Higgins (WR18) and Jerry Jeudy (WR32), promises to unleash a torrent of scoring potential that will leave opponents scrambling. The running back lineup shines with the explosive De'Von Achane (RB6) and the versatile Alvin Kamara (RB14), ensuring a balanced and potent attack despite J.K. Dobbins (RB39) being a slightly weaker link. Astute drafting decisions, such as snagging Trevor

Lawrence and Mark Andrews at exceptional value, underscore the strategic acumen that defines this team. As SWallaceFF embarks on this new season, they stand ready to dominate, combining tactical brilliance with a roster brimming with talent poised to deliver unforgettable performances week after week.
