Scott Fish Bowl Rankings, Analysis, and Team Breakdowns

Rankings are based on actual Scott Fish Bowl ADP from the FantasyLife Scott Fish Bowl tool. Note that in a major tournament like this with nearly 5,000 teams, there are miniscule degrees of separation at play. One player having a breakout season can drastically change a team's results.

These rankings are intended to be entertaining and add in a small way to a wonderful cause. Please consider donating to Fantasy Cares.

As the 2025 fantasy football season looms, Bizix finds itself in an unenviable position, standing at the bottom of the Omaha Stormchasers division and languishing in the lowest percentiles overall. Despite a once-promising 2024 campaign, the team's prospects have dimmed considerably. While their quarterback roster is notably strong with Jayden Daniels, Patrick Mahomes, and C.J. Stroud commanding the field, this strength alone feels like a solitary beacon amidst the surrounding gloom. The running back situation remains dire, with Tyjae Spears struggling to provide the necessary punch to carry the team beyond its current woes. Meanwhile, Keon Coleman, a projected starter, embodies the lack of depth and potency across the board, with his ranking underscoring the challenges Bizix faces. The wide receiver corps, despite having standout talents like Jaxon Smith-Njigba and Marvin Harrison Jr., fails to spark optimism, knowing that even the mightiest players can't fully raise an unbalanced team from its depths. Poor draft choices, including reaching for quarterbacks and receivers earlier than needed, have compounded these issues, leaving the team devoid of the momentum needed to climb from the cellar. Even the slight synergy between Travis Kelce and Mahomes offers little consolation against the broader backdrop of disappointment, setting the stage for what appears to be a long, arduous season ahead.

TE: Evan Engram (S) (TE7 | $10 | 7.10), Darren Waller (TE27 | $0 | 15.10), Dalton Schultz (TE28 | $0 | 17.10)

As the 2025 season looms for Nails220, a disheartening cloud hangs over their prospects, casting long shadows of doubt and worry. With the team languishing at the bottom of the Omaha Stormchasers division and barely scraping into the top 10 percentile overall, it's hard to muster any optimism. Rashid Shaheed, an unlikely starter at WR54, epitomizes the team's struggles, embodying the fragility that plagues their roster. While Nico Collins shines as a rare bright spot at WR7, the supporting cast of Jakobi Meyers, Jauan Jennings, and Cooper Kupp fail to inspire confidence, their rankings reflecting the uphill battle they face. Despite the glimmer of value in acquiring Dalton Schultz, the reaches on players like J.J. McCarthy and Ashton Jeanty, along with significant overdrafts like Cedric Tillman, only unravel what little hope this team had left. As the season kicks off, Nails220 appears poised for turbulence rather than triumph, with faint chances of redemption in sight.

As the 2025 season looms on the horizon, it's hard not to feel a sense of despondency hanging over luckysox86. The team languishes near the bottom of their division, with only two weaker competitors keeping them from the cellar door. Their overall tournament ranking paints an equally bleak picture, dwelling in the lower percentiles. While their tight end core is undeniably the strongest weapon in their arsenal, featuring standouts like Brock Bowers and Sam LaPorta, it hardly compensates for the glaring deficiencies elsewhere. The running back situation is particularly dire, with Tyrone Tracy, Najee Harris, and Ray Davis struggling to inspire any confidence. Najee Harris, in particular, faces an uphill battle as a projected starter despite being the weakest link. What's more, the team's youth and inexperience compound their woes, as their average player age suggests potential rather than prowess. Wide receivers such as Drake London and Tetairoa McMillan offer glimpses of hope, but with a middling rank, they are far from game-changers. The early draft reaches for quarterbacks Joe Burrow and Justin Herbert still sting, overshadowing the few moments of draft-day victories. It's a daunting landscape for luckysox86, filled with more questions than answers as they brace for the arduous journey ahead.

TE: George Kittle (S) (TE3 | $28 | 4.04), David Njoku (S) (TE8 | $9 | 6.04), Juwan Johnson (TE31 | $0 | 17.09)

As the 2025 fantasy football season looms, Go Cubs Go! faces an uphill battle to improve on their disappointing 2024 campaign. Despite a strong quarterback lineup with Josh Allen, Bo Nix, and Jordan Love, the team struggles with a glaring weakness at running back, where James Conner, David Montgomery, and Austin Ekeler fail to inspire confidence. In the Omaha Stormchasers division, they languish near the bottom, with a concerning lack of depth at wide receiver, relying heavily on Amon-Ra St. Brown to carry the load while Marvin Mims' inconsistent performances could spell disaster. Even with top-tier tight ends like George Kittle and David Njoku expected to perform well in this TE Premium setup, the team's questionable draft choices suggest other teams might have outmaneuvered them in key rounds. Without significant improvement, Go Cubs Go! risks repeating last year's struggles and remaining stuck in a rut, struggling to break free from their lowly tournament ranking and mediocre division standing.

As the 2025 fantasy football season unfolds, Guidocreedo enters the fray with a mix of optimism and uncertainty. With Tua Tagovailoa projected as their starting quarterback, there's a lingering concern about consistency at this crucial position. His performance will be pivotal in determining whether Guidocreedo can climb from their current division rank of 8. While their quarterback situation raises eyebrows, the wide receiver lineup shines bright with Ja'Marr Chase leading the charge alongside Brian Thomas Jr. and Tyreek Hill, forming a formidable trio capable of swinging matchups in their favor. The running back duo of Kyren Williams and Aaron Jones holds potential, but they must outperform expectations to keep Guidocreedo competitive. The team managed to snag Aaron Jones later than anticipated, offering them some hope for value gains. However, they took risks by selecting Brian Thomas Jr. and Stefon Diggs earlier than their average draft positions suggested, which could either pay off handsomely or backfire. In a competitive environment, where subtle moves could tip the scales, Guidocreedo's strengths and weaknesses are laid bare. Their overall rank places them in the 33rd percentile, reflecting a need for improvement if they're to make a significant impact this season. Much will depend on whether their gamble on quarterbacks can be offset by the explosive potential of their wide receivers and any hidden gems among their later picks.

In the whimsical realm of fantasy football, where reality often dances with whimsy, george22 embarks on its 2025 odyssey with a curious blend of flamboyance and folly. Nestled comfortably within the perpetual storm that is the Omaha Stormchasers division, george22 finds itself nestled snugly in the divisional hierarchy's prime lower-middle, daring to dream amidst the humdrum mediocrity of past campaigns. The spectacle unfolds with their cadre of wide receivers, a veritable parade of stars led by Justin Jefferson and CeeDee Lamb, whose luminous performances are offset only by the mysterious gravity holding Matthew Golden in its thrall. This ensemble ensures that the team's aerial antics remain unrivaled. Yet, peril lurks in the shadows where running backs dwell, Jaydon Blue and Brian Robinson engaging in a peculiar dance of competitive indifference. Despite the team's uncanny ability to procure value in the unlikeliest of draft rounds, as seen with Cam Ward and Deebo Samuel's serendipitous arrivals, they equally delight in mystifying choices, like the audacious early selection of Amari Cooper. This season, george22 flits about in the grand tournament's vast tapestry, reveling in the quirky modesty of their position, ever hopeful that the cosmic roll of fantasy fate might elevate them from their current pedestrian percentile. In the end, it's the symphony of Dak Prescott's connections with CeeDee Lamb that may strike the final chord, harmonizing this eclectic ensemble in their quest for gridiron glory.

As maverick117 embarks on the 2025 fantasy football season, there's a mix of optimism and cautious anticipation in the air. Last season's performance was respectable but left room for improvement, prompting some strategic offseason moves to bolster the roster. The team boasts an impressive lineup of running backs, with De'Von Achane, Christian McCaffrey, and Jonathan Taylor forming a formidable trio expected to deliver consistent, high-scoring performances. Wide receivers Terry McLaurin and Mike Evans are poised to provide solid contributions through the air, with hopes that Jaylen Waddle and Khalil Shakir can elevate their game. However, much of maverick117's future success hinges on quarterback Bryce Young, who, while talented, remains a critical variable as he seeks to unlock his full potential. If Young and veteran Matthew Stafford can deliver steady play, maverick117 could see a rise from their current positions in both their division and overall rankings, making them a team to watch.

Led by a dynamic quarterback duo with Jalen Hurts and Baker Mayfield, the team's aerial attack looks promising. The wide receiver corps, anchored by Malik Nabers, Tee Higgins, DK Metcalf, and Calvin Ridley, is among the most formidable in the division, offering multiple reliable targets. While Javonte Williams will be a critical player to watch at running back, his performance could be pivotal for the team's success. hallway65 also made some savvy draft moves, securing players like Daniel Jones and RJ Harvey at great value, which could provide a competitive edge as the season unfolds. With strategic depth and talent across the roster, hallway65 is well-positioned to climb the ranks and make significant strides in both their division and overall standings this year.

As the 2025 fantasy football season beckons, nirobi03 stands poised to make a significant impact with their electrifying roster, led by an outstanding cadre of running backs. At the heart of this powerhouse is Bijan Robinson, a veritable marvel ranked RB1, whose dynamic play is sure to set the stage for a thrilling campaign. He's expertly flanked by Bucky Irving, Omarion Hampton, and TreVeyon Henderson, each bringing their own explosive talent to the field, making it a daunting task for any opponent to contain the ground game. While the team faces challenges with tight end depth, Kyle Pitts remains a reliable presence that could surprise many this season. In the receiver department, Travis Hunter leads the charge with his WR12 ranking, supported by George Pickens and Josh Downs, who promise to elevate their performances and boost the team's aerial attack. An intriguing storyline lies with Jordan Mason, a crucial yet somewhat under-the-radar contributor; his development could be the key to unlocking nirobi03's full potential. With youthful energy and an average age of just 24, this squad is ripe for ascending the ranks, driven by Shedeur Sanders, who was boldly acquired ahead of his ADP, signaling strategic foresight. Positioned at 4 in their division, Omaha Stormchasers, and holding strong in the 73rd percentile overall, nirobi03 is primed to chase greatness and perhaps emerge as a surprise contender in this competitive fantasy landscape.

As the 2025 fantasy football season kicks off, SMATgpt is poised for a thrilling run, standing strong at third in their division and within the top fifth of overall competitors. The team's backbone is its formidable array of running backs, unquestionably the best in their division, featuring standout talents like Jahmyr Gibbs, Derrick Henry, and Breece Hall. These dynamic players promise both consistency and explosive potential on the field, providing SMATgpt with a significant advantage. Although the quarterback position poses some challenges with Geno Smith and Sam Darnold, the team remains optimistic, knowing the incredible depth and versatility at running back can mitigate any setbacks. Rhamondre Stevenson, a key player picked up with great value late in the draft, adds another layer of strength to the lineup, offering potential upside as the season progresses. As SMATgpt navigates through the competitive landscape, they aim to leverage their impressive running back depth to climb higher in the rankings and make a significant impact. With strategic play and determination, SMATgpt is set to tackle the challenges ahead and push towards a successful season.

As the 2025 fantasy football season unfolds, Team Andelo is poised to make a significant impact. Sitting confidently at rank 2 in the Omaha Stormchasers division and in the 81st percentile overall, Andelo is a testament to strategic foresight and player performance. The team, underpinned by an impressive stable of running backs led by Saquon Barkley (RB2), has effectively leveraged the ground game to propel its rankings forward. Complemented by Chase Brown (RB12) and Quinshon Judkins (RB23), Andelo's backfield is a powerhouse that's set to keep the pressure on opponents. The clever draft decisions are evident, particularly with Trey McBride (TE2) flourishing in this TE Premium setup; his presence promises continued dominance in tight end production alongside Dallas Goedert (TE16) and Brenton Strange (TE21). The quarterback position is fortified by Trevor Lawrence, whose intelligent acquisition well below ADP highlights Andelo's cunning draft strategy. Even with the wide receiver corps being an area marked for improvement, the collective strength and potential of the roster shine through. With an eye on climbing even higher from last year's middle-ground performance, Andelo is ready to unleash a season brimming with ambition and potential glory.

As the 2025 fantasy football season approaches, Team okbird proudly stands as a powerhouse in their league, boasting an enviable first-place division rank and a remarkable position within the top 95th percentile of all teams. With an impressive roster led by dynamic quarterbacks Lamar Jackson and Kyler Murray, okbird is poised for a stellar season. The team's wide receiver lineup is formidable, featuring Puka Nacua and Ladd McConkey as standout stars who are expected to consistently deliver top-tier performances. Although Emeka Egbuka might seem like a weaker link among the starting lineup, his potential to surprise should not be underestimated, as okbird has carefully crafted a strategy to maximize his contribution. In assembling this remarkable team, okbird expertly capitalized on value picks, acquiring Kyler Murray, Kenneth Walker III, Jerome Ford, Blake Corum, and Tucker Kraft at strategic points in the draft, thereby enhancing their depth and flexibility. While a reach was made for Emeka Egbuka, the team's overall draft acumen and clever stacking of Lamar Jackson with Zay Flowers add an exciting synergy to their offensive approach. With such a well-rounded and shrewdly constructed team, okbird is set to navigate the challenges of the upcoming season with confidence and skill, eager to maintain their elite status and secure victory in both their outstanding division and beyond.
