Scott Fish Bowl Rankings, Analysis, and Team Breakdowns

Rankings are based on actual Scott Fish Bowl ADP from the FantasyLife Scott Fish Bowl tool. Note that in a major tournament like this with nearly 5,000 teams, there are miniscule degrees of separation at play. One player having a breakout season can drastically change a team's results.

These rankings are intended to be entertaining and add in a small way to a wonderful cause. Please consider donating to Fantasy Cares.

As trod926 gears up for the 2025 season, the outlook appears rather bleak. After a dominant 2024 performance, the team now finds itself languishing at the bottom of the Washington Valor division and in the lowest percentiles overall. Despite having strong quarterbacks in Jayden Daniels and Kyler Murray, the team's wide receiver lineup is alarmingly weak, with Zay Flowers, DeVonta Smith, and Deebo Samuel failing to rank within the top 20. Their running back situation isn't much better, as Tyjae Spears, a projected starter, is one of the weakest links in the roster. Even the value picks of Cam Ward and Keon Coleman struggle to inject much optimism. The decision to reach on Jayden Daniels and Kyler Murray has left them without depth in other crucial areas. With their current rankings, it seems that trod926 is destined for another season of struggles, desperately searching for the magic that propelled them in 2024.

As KornBred trudges into the 2025 fantasy football season, the road ahead appears daunting. Nestled near the bottom of the Washington Valor division, the team struggles to find its footing amidst fierce competition. Despite managing to snag some value picks with Jordan Love and Zach Charbonnet, their roster feels shaky at best. Quarterback uncertainties loom large over the team, as the combination of Jordan Love and Bryce Young fails to inspire confidence. The backfield offers little relief, with Joe Mixon leading a lackluster corps that includes Travis Etienne and Zach Charbonnet. However, the team's receiving unit glimmers with potential, boasting top-tier talents like Justin Jefferson, Amon-Ra St. Brown, and Brian Thomas Jr., alongside reliable veterans Mike Evans and Courtland Sutton. Dalton Kincaid's role as a starting tight end only highlights the team's thinness in other areas, while ill-timed reaches in the draft have left KornBred scrambling for solutions. Plodding in the shadows of the top percentile, KornBred faces an uphill battle this season, where every lineup decision could tip the scales between fleeting hope and inevitable frustration.

As the 2025 fantasy football season dawns, Team EvRitt3 is poised to dazzle in much the same way a flickering light bulb might in a grand chandelier. With their breathtaking 10th-place division rank and nestled comfortably in the 10th percentile overall, they serve as inspiration for all who dream of mediocrity. Known for their average 2024 performance, this team strives to be consistently unremarkable, especially with wide receivers like Luther Burden and Marvin Mims, whose presence on the field rivals that of decorative pylons. Thankfully, they have strong tight ends like Trey McBride and Jonnu Smith, who were acquired with the kind of enthusiasm usually reserved for buying a slightly overpriced loaf of bread. Their running backs are middle-of-the-pack, but at least they're not threatening to break any records—just the hearts of hopeful fans. In a league where age is often celebrated, EvRitt3's youthful roster manages to blend naivety with unseasoned potential, ensuring they'll remain an icon of underwhelming gamesmanship for seasons to come.

As JJWilly embarks on the 2025 fantasy football season, the team finds itself in a precarious position, having slipped to a 9th place finish in their division and languishing in the 14th percentile overall. Last year's success now feels like a distant memory, overshadowed by the team's current struggles. While their quarterback lineup remains unparalleled with top-tier performances from Lamar Jackson and Patrick Mahomes, the team grapples with glaring weaknesses elsewhere. The wide receiver corps, led by DK Metcalf, Calvin Ridley, and Rashid Shaheed, has failed to deliver the needed firepower, leaving the team vulnerable in matchups. Fortunately, a strong tight end group, featuring Travis Kelce, Mark Andrews, and others, provides some relief by consistently contributing points in this TE premium format. However, the running back situation poses a significant challenge; Najee Harris, despite being drafted as a potential value pick, now appears to be a weak link that could determine the season's outcome. The reliance on late-round value picks like Cam Skattebo, alongside shrewd stacks between quarterbacks and tight ends, offers a glimmer of hope. However, the early reach for DK Metcalf might haunt the team if the wide receiver continues to underperform. As they navigate a competitive landscape, JJWilly must capitalize on their strengths and address their vulnerabilities if they hope to rekindle last year's success.

As the 2025 fantasy football season looms large, mandermanny is poised to offer their fans another rollercoaster ride teetering on the brink of the mundane. With a division rank of 8th and a stellar 27th percentile tournament standing, optimism abounds—or perhaps not. The team boasts a receiving corps that could double as a who's-who of next-gen wideouts with CeeDee Lamb effortlessly leading the charge. However, the quarterback situation is akin to selecting the lesser of two evils between Dak Prescott and Michael Penix Jr.—a decision tantamount to choosing the least rusty anchor for a sinking ship. Meanwhile, Chase Brown's draft-day overvaluation suggests a strategy built on wishful thinking rather than cold hard stats. As for Emeka Egbuka, his starting role, despite trailing the pack, signals either a stroke of genius or desperate hope, like banking on the world's slowest horse in a race. Could this be the year mandermanny defies the odds? Let's just say the bookmakers aren't exactly sweating over it.

Anchored by a formidable running back corps featuring Ashton Jeanty and Alvin Kamara, and complemented by the explosive wide receiver duo of Malik Nabers and Tyreek Hill, the Fat Sacks are poised to make serious waves in the Washington Valor division. Watch out for J.K. Dobbins, who emerges as a key player this season—his performance could tip the scales in tight matchups. Despite some areas that need shoring up, like the quarterback position with Sam Darnold, and tight end, the team's strategic draft moves have set them on an upward trajectory. With a quarterback roster led by Joe Burrow and Bo Nix, and supported by Geno Smith, they pack a punch at the helm of their offense. Their running back corps is unmatched in the Washington Valor division, featuring top-tier talent like Bijan Robinson, TreVeyon Henderson, and James Cook, who promise to be the backbone of the team's success. While the wide receiver group, led by Tetairoa McMillan and Jordan Addison, faces challenges, the team has invested heavily in them, suggesting a belief in their potential to outperform expectations. Brandon Aiyuk's performance could be pivotal, as his contributions might sway the team's overall success. Tight end Mike Gesicki rounds out the roster, complementing an ambitious strategy that hinges on high upside performances. With strategic drafting moves that secured value picks like Joe Burrow and David Montgomery, Demorralizer is positioned to exceed its current standing, making them a dark horse contender on both the divisional and broader competitive stages.

Led by a fleet of dynamic running backs, including the indomitable Christian McCaffrey, who charges forth as the fifth-ranked juggernaut, and the relentless Kyren Williams, ranked eleventh, MattPotts boasts a formidable backfield arsenal that strikes fear into the hearts of their adversaries. While challenges remain, particularly among their tight ends, and with the determined Jaydon Blue as a pivotal yet precarious element of their rushing machine, the team's resolve is unyielding. The aerial assault, though ranked eighth within their division, is spearheaded by the electrifying Garrett Wilson and supported by the reliable hands of Chris Godwin, poised to elevate the team's offensive exploits. Rising to the occasion, MattPotts now sits proudly in the upper echelons, ranking fourth in the fiercely competitive Washington Valor division and standing tall in the illustrious 79th percentile of the grand tournament. As the echoes of past setbacks fade into whispers, MattPotts surges forward, a beacon of determination and ambition, ready to seize destiny and rewrite the chronicles of their legendary journey.

As gbaldwin85 gears up for the 2025 fantasy football season, fans have every reason to be excited about this promising lineup. Following an impressive 2024 that saw them finish in the top tier of competitors, they are entering this year with a formidable roster built to shine. Despite a slight vulnerability at quarterback, Trevor Lawrence QB19 is poised to manage games well enough to let the team's other strengths take center stage. The tight end squad, led by superstar Brock Bowers TE1, complemented by T.J. Hockenson TE6 and Evan Engram TE7, is unrivaled in the division and provides a significant edge against opponents. The running back corps, underscored by the shrewd acquisition of Saquon Barkley, who fell later than expected in the draft, adds depth and surprise power to their strategy, even as Austin Ekeler RB47 steps into a challenging role. At wide receiver, the dynamic trio of Jaxon Smith-Njigba WR13, D.J. Moore WR22, and Chris Olave WR35 is set to deliver consistent performances. While this team ranks third in their division, their overall placement in the 86th percentile demonstrates their competitive edge. With clever drafting moves and a superbly balanced squad, gbaldwin85 enters the season with optimism and ambition, ready to climb the ranks and vie for supremacy.

The 2025 season is shaping up to be an exciting one for SpectacularLes, as they enter the year with significant momentum. After a solid performance last year, finishing in the impressive 78th percentile, they're now poised for a breakout with an even more formidable squad. Ranked second in their division, Washington Valor, and soaring in the 88th percentile overall, SpectacularLes has crafted a team that promises to deliver on high expectations. With a stellar quarterback lineup featuring Josh Allen, Justin Fields, and Anthony Richardson, the team boasts one of the most dynamic QB rosters in the league. Their strategic drafting also landed them great value picks like Josh Allen and Nick Chubb, enhancing their depth and potential for high-scoring performances. The wide receiver corps, though diverse in rankings, features emerging talents like Nico Collins and Jameson Williams, who are set to surprise opponents. Despite Michael Pittman being the lower-ranked starter, his potential contributions ensure no weak links in this team's armor. With such a well-rounded and strategically crafted ensemble, SpectacularLes is not just aiming to defend their standing but to elevate it as they stride confidently into the new season.

As the 2025 fantasy football season kicks off, Team koogzz stands poised for another electrifying run. After a dominant 2024 campaign where they finished in the top echelon with a remarkable 97th percentile point finish and an impressive 83% winning percentage, the team is entering this year with unstoppable momentum. Sitting proudly atop the Washington Valor division, koogzz boasts an unparalleled wide receiver corps, featuring the dynamic talents of Ja'Marr Chase, Puka Nacua, A.J. Brown, Ladd McConkey, Terry McLaurin, Jaylen Waddle, and Jayden Reed. This formidable lineup is the envy of the league, promising explosive plays and consistent performances week after week. While their running back stable may not boast top-tier rankings, strategic late-round value additions like Trey Benson and the savvy acquisition of Dylan Sampson and Justice Hill bolster their depth.

Shepherded by the canny leadership of Justin Herbert and complemented by the ever-reliable Dallas Goedert, koogzz's roster strikes fear into the hearts of opponents both in their division and beyond. With the perfect blend of star power, strategic drafting, and last year's exceptional form, koogzz is ready to light up the fantasy landscape once again and chase glory in every contest they enter.
